Weymouth Preschoolers Present to the Charlotte Public Schools Board of Education

All the classrooms at Charlotte Public Schools' Weymouth Child Development Center believe in learning through play and hands on experiences. The 4 year old preschool classroom at Weymouth had the opportunity to present on this topic at February's Board of Education meeting. After a short intro by the classroom teacher, Ms. Jane, a group of 6 children stood in front of the Board to sing songs for them. The children had practiced for weeks prior, and when it came to the night of the performance, all of them were ready to go! The goal of the performance was to showcase that the children learn all sorts of things through their daily activities, songs, and stories, and that play is truly the work of children. It is how they learn and make sense of the world around them. It was also a great opportunity for our young children to be rewarded for their hard work.
