PARKVIEW ELEMENTARY WELCOMES NEW STAFF

Amy Sparks and Beth Monroe are the newest members of the Parkview Elementary staff. Both Amy and Beth, help students during lunchtime and recess with guidance and support as paraprofessionals.

Amy has worked in collections and has done waitressing in the past, but finds working with the students of Parkview the best part of her day. She loves seeing all of the students, from Developmental Kindergarteners to third graders in the lunchroom and watching them become more responsible as the school year progresses. "I am loving being with the students and I hope to pursue other school employment as it becomes available."

Beth is a Parkview parent who spends many hours volunteering at school, so when the paid position became available, she was able to combine the two and be even more involved with students.

Beth is a full time mom and finds working in the lunchroom helps her stay involved in the activities of Parkview and gives her a little income to support extra vacations to visit her older children. Beth's own educational experience had been in private or home school situations. "I have learned and appreciate how much public schools have to offer to diverse students with many needs." Welcome to both of you! Go Orioles!
