Parkview Students Reach Their Reading Goal!

Mrs. Kim Caudell, principal at Charlotte Public Schools' Parkview Elementary School, recently challenged all students to read every night at home. On Friday, when 94% of the students returned their reading logs and proved they had all read at home for an entire week, Mrs. Caudell let the students tape her to a wall.

For the entire school year, the Parkview students have been encouraged to read just a few minutes each night. Parents have also been very supportive of the Parkview reading challenge and have done their part to make reading a daily habit at home. We are proud of everyone's hard work in creating a community of avid readers. Go Orioles! Oriole Pride!
