New Second Grade Teacher Joins Parkview Elementary School

Miranda Steward has dreamt of teaching at Charlotte Public Schools. As a young child, attending Weymouth Elementary, she loved watching and learning from the many talented teachers she had and knew then that teaching would be her career. Ms. Steward's dream is now fulfilled as she is a second grade teacher at Parkview Elementary School.

After graduating from CPS, Ms. Steward attended Central Michigan University where she received her degree in Elementary Education. Miranda student taught in Potterville and participated in many leadership roles at CMU.

Ms. Steward has found that many of her new colleagues at Parkview and throughout the school district now play a different type of role in her career. She has gone from being their student to a co-worker. "I knew as a student that the teaching community at CPS was special, but I am now understanding that on a whole new level now. No one scoffs my questions, everyone is willing to share their knowledge, resources, tips, and supplies."

Ms. Steward's advice to her students as they learn alongside her in second grade this year will be, "We're all teachers and learners simultaneously. Learning is a lifelong journey, and each one of us has something to share with the world."

Welcome back to Charlotte Ms. Steward and welcome to Parkview!
